About The Meeting

This seminar is designed to provide a practical yet comprehensive review of soft tissue tumor pathology. Integration of epidemiology, clinical information, and histology; a pattern-based approach to diagnosis; pearls and pitfalls; and the optimal application of ancillary diagnostic methods (especially immunohistochemistry) will be discussed.

Target Audience

This CME activity is primarily intended and designed to educate pathologists.

Scientific Sponsor

Educational Symposia

Accreditation

Physicians: Educational Symposia is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Educational Symposia designates this live activity for a maximum of 12.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)TM. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

Educational Objectives

Attendees should, at the completion of this course, be able to:

- Apply a pattern-based approach to the differential diagnosis of soft tissue tumors.
- Discuss the differential diagnosis of cutaneous spindle cell tumors.
- Describe the evolution of immunohistochemistry for soft tissue tumors.
- Recognize histologic and genetic subtypes of gastrointestinal stromal tumors.
- Utilize immunohistochemistry to diagnose carcinomas of unknown primary.
- Apply a pattern-based diagnostic approach to vascular and nerve sheath tumors.
- Apply immunohistochemistry for the diagnosis of gastrointestinal lymphomas.

No special educational preparation is required for this CME activity.
